New Yorkers For A Day

Cuba Is Progressing Like the people of some culture, standing United States and Is a Fine Field for Americans.

By Roger Batchelder.

While the average American regards Cuba in terms of Havana, with its the movie mob scenes, and is glad to race track, baseball games and the get the occasional $5 which be strict absence of Prohibition, those interesting items are only a small feature of the island, according to James H. Townsend, Santiago representative of a New York banking firm, who is at the Astor. "There are tremendous possibilitle for Americans in Cuba," related Mr. Townsend, "and the similarity between progress there and in this country is striking. The United States expanded westward from the East. Similarly Cuba is growing out from the Havana district eastward, and regions which were formerly remote are now covered with sugar plantations and allied industrial activities.

"The great need of Cuba to-day is better transportation. I can remember that when I lived in this vicinity it took a day to go to the Berkshires on the dirt road. Last week I made the trip in less than six hours. We washed the car every night then; now it is hard to find a garage which will do it. In Cuba, once out of the cities, travel becomes difficult. Cuba should have one good road at least, running from one end of the island to the other, and its railroad facilities should be greatly improved. When these things are brought about Cuba will expand to an astounding extent."

THIS PASTOR APPROVES OF WEALTH.

While mency may be the root of all evil in proverb, it is one of the greatest existing powers for good, according to Russell H. Conwell, pastor of Temple Church, Philadelphia, who is said to be the largest salaried minister in this country.

"I believe that wealth has followed honest business practice in the case of 98 per cent, of the rich men of Amerihe said to-day at the Pennsylva-"Money should not be regarded as an evil thing, for it can do much good. On that account I deplore the too moderate salaries usually accepted by ministers, who should be free financially to do good whenever deserving calls are made upon them.'

Dr. Conwell's pastorate has grown from 100 to its present 3,000 members since he took charge of it. He is also President of Temple University, Phila-

COL. SAM WINSLOW VISITS US. Col. Samuel E. Winslow, for ten years Congressman from the Worcester, Mass., district, dropped into the Biltmore yesterday on his way home for a short visit. Baseball bugs of a generation ago will recall the Colonel as the Captain and crack pitcher of the champion 1885 Harvard team, said to have been the best baseball nine which ever tossed a ball in Cambridge, Incidentally, he won practically every varsity letter which was awarded during his four years of college.

The Colonel admits modestly that the old nine on which he and "Doc" Nichols played was about the last word in baseball teams, but when it comes to football it is different. "Yes, I played football, too-in the line," he says, "but I think I was the worst player on the worst team tha Harvard ever had." Col. Winslow, now Chairman of the Foreign and Interstate Committee, is known as "the heaviest man in Con-

LONDON'S BEGGARS NUMEROUS. "The number of beggars whom one sees on the streets is a good indication everywhere of the business con-ditions which exist," declared Frederick M. Hall, at the Commodore, from London. "The streets of Lon-don," he continued, "are crowded with them to-day. There is an ex-soldiers' band, which plays in the principal squares; so much money vas taken in that many actually left their jobs to join it. Now, because o the need for economy in the administrative departments, many Govern-

REMEMBER "MARY MATCHES?" "One of Broadway's most picturesque characters in the old days was 'Mary Matches,' who stood in front of the Casino, at 39th Street and Broadway," reminisced J. L. Mead of Chicago, at the Commodore. "In those days matches were rather scarce and of poor quality. She watched the men coming from the theatre be-tween the acts and after the show, and lighted the cigars of those who had no matches. In this way she earned many a tip, and was reputed to have made a small fortune. But Broadway has a cigar store on every corner, and we are blessed with infinite matches which every man can carry in his pocket."
